

DEMENTIA AND ALZHEIMER'S ASSIGNMENTS: Strategies for Successful Patient Interactions

Many new nursing jobs are in the long-term and community care sectors. Our growing elderly population will have diagnoses of Dementia and/or Alzheimer's disease. This workshop offers insights to understand the patient's condition, perceptions and behavior and will better prepare the nurse for Dementia/Alzheimer's patient interactions with special strategies for care and treatment. Please join Karen Phair, Public Education Coordinator of Alzheimer Society Peel as she shares her expertise in Dementia and Alzheimer's nursing assignments.

Learning Objectives:

- To gain an understanding of what is Dementia
- To gain knowledge of behaviours associated with Alzheimer's and related Dementia
- To learn the most effective communication strategies
- To learn about the services provided by the Alzheimer Society Peel
